The Register

Nathan Learner, Editor-in-Chief

This edition of the REGISTER marks the termination of the fiftieth year of its publication. Since its founding in 1881, it has enjoyed a continuous existence, until it is now the oldest school paper in the oldest school of the United States. That is a distinction, indeed, a distinction which, augmented, as it has been, by contributions throughout the lapse of years, has become more and more difficult to maintain. To enhance the glory of the REGISTER has not been necessary; the problem has been to preserve it. In this we hope and trust success has come to us, through the conscientious endeavor of the various undergraduates whose contributions it is here my pleasure to acknowledge.

Phoenix N. Dangel, our Managing Editor, has for two years been a welcome contributor to this paper. Although he has at times been compelled, during the last year, to relinquish, under the burden of other pressing duties, his literary efforts, his has been a substantial cooperation in the efforts of the present board to maintain the status of our fiction and editorial departments.

Robert B. Lichtenstein, the Senior Associate Editor, has for three years graced these pages with artistic book-reviews and short stories. Although not a prolific writer, he has been the author of several contributions of distinction. James S. N. Howard, another Associate Editor, has proved himself a loyal member of the Staff. His essays and editorials have given balance and dignity to more than one issue of the REGISTER. Of Grover J. Cronin, Jr., it is difficult to speak without some evidence of astonishment. Associate Editor, Poet, and Business Manager, he has frequently caused us to remark how paradoxical is human nature. Not seldom has he been heard to interrupt himself, in the midst of his lyrical improvisations, to exclaim, apropos of nothing, "How much does he want?" or, "Did you collect the twelve dollars?"

Our Class II Editors have been more than ordinarily active this year. Wendell I. Gray has contributed a good deal of fiction and humor, and has been of great aid in routine work. Richard L. Odiorne has confined his activities to the fiction and editorial departments, and it is needless to say that he has been gratifyingly successful. Edward H. Martin's field of activity has been an unusually wide one; as a poet, dramatist, book-reviewer, and editorial-writer, he has been far from idle. But it is in poetry that he has made his most significant contributions. Wilfred Kaplan has been the most prolific contributor to the book-review column, and it has been mainly through his efforts that this department has been maintained. His chief work, however, has been in the writing of short stories, which have been notable for their artistry and thought-provoking quality.

The sports department has enjoyed a most successful year. Under the editorship of Benjamin Kadish, it has impressed many of our subscribers as being one of the best sports sections the REGISTER has produced in recent years. This is all the more remarkable because Kadish, throughout the entire year, was compelled to do without the assistance of any undergraduate, and, consequently, to be present at, and report, every activity which pertained in any way to sports. Besides managing his own department, moreover, he has been a frequent contributor to the editorial column.

In the management of the business department, Cronin has been aided by the Assistant Business Managers—Sydney Freedberg, Paul Jacobs, and Harold Banks; Gaynor O'Gorman, Jr. has also generously assisted.

The art work of the REGISTER this year has been done by Sydney Freedberg and Emil Ober. In Freedberg we have another of those rare individuals who successfully manage to combine aesthetics and economics.

Leon R. Kaplan has handled the problem of circulation in a most efficient manner, and has, moreover, contributed to the editorial department.

Foley and Nexon, the Class III Editors, have contributed fiction, school notes, and alumni notes, and have aided in perfunctory work. True to their type, they have been characterized by a rebelliousness and an abhorrence of Sanctum dustpans.

Through the efforts of the Staff, the publication of a paper that has appealed to the student body has been made possible. Any enumeration, however, of the contributions of those affiliated with the REGISTER, cannot but be incomplete without mention, at least, of Messrs. Sheehan and Levine, the Faculty Advisers. Of the significance of their unstinted efforts as factors in the paper's success, it would be difficult, indeed, to exaggerate. For their services we are profoundly grateful.

There is yet another factor, the importance of which is frequently minimized, in the success or failure of a school paper; that is, the evincing by the student body of an interest in, and desire to cooperate with, the Staff. Such interest and cooperation has not been lacking in the Latin School. But if there is anything which is to be particularly desired, it is that future Staffs foster and encourage that spirit of cooperation for the benefit of the REGISTER and School alike.

Class Book Committee

Following the custom of some years standing, faculty permission was secured to publish a Class Day Issue. The heavy and extensive labor necessary to produce the book has been done by the "Register" Staff and Class Book Committee. The bulk of the work, however, was done by the Chairman, Nathan Learner, and by Grover J. Cronin, Jr., who managed the financial affairs of the publication. Of the pictures, write-ups, quotations, set-ups, "dummies", page proofs, and all the other intricate factors which make up the business of printing the school magazine, this book is the result. The Staff submits their work for the approval of the school.

The Debating Society

by Gabriel G. Ryan, President

The Latin School Debating Society entered upon the activities of its 1930-31 season early in October. Owing to his duties at the Annex, Mr. Roland was obliged to relinquish his connection with the club. Mr. Marnell, who rendered valuable assistance to the team during last season has served the club as faculty adviser this year. The officers, elected soon after the club had been organized for the current term, were: G. G. Ryan, President; N. Learner, Vice-President; G. J. Cronin, Secretary; B. Kadish, Treasurer; M. Schiller, Sergeant-at-arms.

The first interscholastic debate of the season was held on the evening of December 5th, with Winthrop High School, at Winthrop. Latin School, represented by Gaynor O'Gorman, '32; Grover Cronin, '31; and Gabriel Ryan, '31 (Capt.); was defeated by a two-to-one vote of the judges, on the question: "Resolved, that the principles embodied in the Monroe Doctrine be declared obsolete."

The Junior Debating team, which organization had been incorporated with the Senior society at the beginning of the season, next stepped into the spotlight when it journeyed to Norwood to meet the Norwood High Juniors. The debate was one of the "no-decision" type. The Latin School boys, S. Kilbrick, W. Jacobson, and J. M. Foley, may truly be said to have acquitted themselves admirably.

Not content with one meeting with Norwood, the Latin School club arranged for another debate—this time between the senior teams—to be held at Norwood on April 10. Trials for the team resulted in the selection of Joseph Michael Foley, '33; Sydney Freedberg, '32; and Gabriel Ryan, '31; with Richard Odiorne, '32 and Grover Cronin, Jr., '31 as alternates. The debate, the subject of which was: "Resolved, the the influence of present day installment plan buying is to be deplored", was discussed in a most interesting and able manner by both sides. By agreement this was also a "no-decision" debate.

The annual Prize Debate was held in the school hall early in May. Trials for this debate found the following competitors successful: G. Cronin, N. Learner, J. Foley, R. Odiorne, G. O'Gorman, Jr., E. Silberman, S. Freedberg, and Wernick. Nthan Learner won the gold medal; Joseph M. Foley the silver medal.

The members of the club wish to express their gratitude to Mr. Marnell and Mr. F. C. Cleary, for their efforts in behalf of debating at the Latin School. It is to be hoped and expected that the student body will continue to cooperate with them, that interest in this most important branch of forensic activity may flourish.

THE LITERARY CLUB

The Literary Club

Sydney Joseph Freedberg

Without the slightest fear of contradiction, we who have weathered the 1930-31 season of the Literary Club may be said to have experienced an adventure of unusual turbulence. However, like the immortal Ship of State, the club survived every shock and buffet and emerged triumphant, though somewhat battered, with a reasonable prospect of another successful voyage on quieter seas.

The season started quietly enough; the previously elected officers were duly installed:

Morris Leader, President

Phoenix N. Dangel, Vice President

Grover J. Cronin, Secretary

Meeting were begun under the system used by previous Literary Clubs.

Certain speakers were secured, who carried us most entertainingly through three or so meetings. Then, in some peculiar fashion, our source of lecturers seemed suddenly to dry up, leaving the Club stranded high and dry with a rapidly dwindling membership.

The situation soon became so acute, that, to revive interest in the Club's activities, a new system of weekly meetings and Round Table discussions was inaugurated. Very soon the Literary Club, with an exceedingly active and equally selective membership, was permanently reorganized. Among the topics discussed, and often debated, under the new system were "Is Free Verse Poetry?", "The Plays of George Bernard Shaw", "New Schools in Literature", and several others of equal interest.

The Literary Club this year may be justly said to owe, not only its survival, but also its existence to our able and well-liked Faculty Adviser, Mr. Marson. It is to his efforts that we are indebted for a gratifying season.

Rear Row—Nexon, Wilkas, Linenthal, Scannell, Strachan, Pierson, Epstein
Front Row—Callahan, Odiorne, Josephs, O'Gorman, Peggram, McGrenery

The Dramatic Club

Gaynor O'Gorman, Jr., Stage Manager

Under the direction of Mr. Russo, the Faculty Advisor, the work of the Dramatic Club began about the middle of February and continued throughout the ensuing months until the presentation of Milton Herbert Gropper's farce in three acts, "It Won't Be Long Now", before a capacity audience in the School Hall at eight o'clock P. M. on the evening of Friday, May 1, 1931.

Because of the pressure of other "extra-curriculum" activities Thomas H. Dowd, Jr. was unable to take a part, and so the only really seasoned veteran of the "boards" was Michael Linenthal. Despite this altogether too apparent handicap, however, the performance was a success and may be weighed in the balance with the plays given by the Dramatic Club in other years and not found "wanting". Manifestly all credit for this success is due to Mr. Mark Russo, whose patience with "ham" actors and whose ability to "turn the desert into a garden of roses", in the field of dramatic endeavour, is nothing short of remarkable.

The officers of the Club for the year 1930-31 are:

|                      |                          |
|----------------------|--------------------------|
| Simon Joseph         | .....President           |
| J. Morgan Strachan   | .....Vice-President      |
| Richard L. Odiorne   | .....Secretary-Treasurer |
| Gaynor O'Gorman, Jr. | .....Stage Manager       |

The business affairs were carried on by Reed E. Peggram, Business Manager. In the order of their first appearance the cast includes:

|                   |                                       |
|-------------------|---------------------------------------|
| THOMAS            | .....William McGreenery               |
| WILLIAM MEEK      | .....Maurice Lipow                    |
| "BEANY" BLAKE     | .....Hubert Nexon                     |
| ROBERT PRESTON    | .....Simon Joseph                     |
| MISS WILKES       | .....Walter Epstein                   |
| CHARLES DOBSON    | .....Gaynor O'Gorman, Jr.             |
| VIVIAN DARRELL    | .....Michael Linenthal                |
| DR. TALLY         | .....J. Morgan Strachan               |
| ANN WINSTON       | .....John Wilkas                      |
| OLGA              | .....Edwin Oscar Pearson              |
| FRANCES           | .....George Ogar                      |
| REV. DR. LORING   | .....J. Frank Scannell, Jr.           |
| A POLICEMAN       | .....Francis W. Callahan              |
| FRANK CULLEN      | .....Richard L. Odiorne               |
| TWO PHOTOGRAPHERS | .....M. J. Felt andJohn J. Cullen |

Praise for outstanding interpretation and acting of the character assigned to them is due to Simon Joseph, Michael Linenthal, and J. Morgan Strachan.

Chess and Checker Club

Grover J. Cronin, Jr.

Early in September, the Chess and Checker Club held its first meeting and elected the following officers:

|                      |                |
|----------------------|----------------|
| Nathan Learner ..... | President      |
| Alec Scolnick .....  | Vice-President |
| Harold Banks .....   | Secretary      |

Teams were selected after a closely contested tournament. The Chess team consisted of: Nathan Learner, Captain; Alec Skolnick, Philip Elkin, and A. Feldman. On the checker team were: Abraham Chainrin, Captain; Nathan Learner, and Alec Skolnick.

In January, a Chess match was played with Dorchester High School. The Latin School team won a complete victory, taking every one of the nine games that were played.

No checker matches were held with other schools this year.

The Club wishes to thank its faculty adviser, Mr. Gretsche, for the help he has cheerfully rendered to the members.

The Orchestra

Edward H. Martin

Due to the graduation of many members, the Orchestra has suffered somewhat of a relapse. Through the efforts, however, of Mr. Augusto Vaninni, the conductor, it has flourished despite the various defections of its members.

Unfortunately, the new seating arrangement in the Assembly Hall precluded the possibility of having the orchestra to provide entertainment during assemblies; and accordingly its activities have been greatly restricted.

Throughout the year new members from the lower classes have been entering the organization. The prospects for next year are, therefore, very bright.

Football Team - - City Champions 1931

by Samuel Bornstein

In September over 100 enthusiastic candidates reported to Coach Fitzgerald at the initial football meeting of the season. The lettermen and veterans remaining from last year's team were: Capt. Wilson, Bilodeau, Weiner, Fitzgerald, and O'Hare, who were an invaluable asset in forming the nucleus of the team which won the City Championship.

Opening the season September 27, with St. Mark's School, the team journeyed down to Southborough, and lost a hard fought game 7—0. The following week the team encountered its annual rival, Groton, and was forced down to defeat by a superior eleven to the score of 13—0. We next held a powerful, outstanding eleven of Boston College High to a lone touchdown. On October 17, in our concluding outer-city game, the team was crushed by Middlesex, an undefeated eleven, by the score of 52—13.

Commencing with Commerce the team began its steady climb towards the City Championship by overcoming our neighbors across the street 13—0, thus avenging last year's setback. The game was marked by many thrills, featuring a 90 yard run by Weiner, the powerful and accurate forward passing arm of Capt. Wilson, and the fine defensive work of Saklad. Although handicapped by a wet field and slippery ball, we succeeded in putting the skids under the Trade team and vanquished them by the score of 6—0. On Armistice Day at Braves Field the team played one of its best games of the season and emerged victorious by the score of 7—6, overcoming a heavier Dorchester High eleven. The team next overwhelmed Mechanic Arts 19—0, a game in which a great number of substitutes were given a chance to play. On Thanksgiving Day the eleven entered the field a favorite, but the pre-game 'dope' was upset, our ancient rival forcing us to accept the painful and heart-breaking defeat 14—13. The 'breaks' of the game, which play a very important part, were not destined for the team. "Bucky" Gore was the outstanding star of the clash, scoring all our points, after catching the passes of Capt. Wilson.

The team was fortunate in having such a competent quarterback as Tom Bilodeau, the great forward passing arm of Capt. Wilson, and the all-round playing and co-operation of the entire team. At the close of the season "Fuzza" Fitzgerald, capable pivot linesman, was elected captain for 1932. Since Dorchester defeated Commerce, we held a firm grasp on the City Title, even though the team bowed to English!

Track 1930=31

by Bernard Garber

As usual the student body has this season rather slighted the track team and its activities. This has been due, no doubt, to the fact that after the frenzy of the football season, which reaches its height on Thanksgiving Day, the interest of the school in sports in general subsides; and, consequently, the track team suffers. Nevertheless, through the efforts of a small group the school was creditably represented on the boards, and these boys who trained faithfully every day under the expert supervision of Coach Fitzgerald deserve to be commended.

The season began in an inauspicious manner. In our first meet, we were beaten by Hyde Park High School. Although trailing by only three points, the team saw that it would have to work hard in order to maintain its standing. In the next meet we "nosed out" the High School of Commerce by one point, to retain the "Championship of the Avenue". Mechanic Arts High School won this meet with the score of 90 points. The most we could garner was 71 to Commerce's 70.

The next meet was with Trade School and Dorchester High School. Again we lost a close decision—this time to Trade.

Then came the meet with English. We outdid ourselves and scored eighty-four (84) points to English's one hundred and thirty-four (134). This was a smaller margin than the mighty English had enjoyed in nine years. It looks as if the time is not far distant when we shall conquer the blue. —May the gods on Olympus speed the day—! In the Regimental Indoor Meet we turned the tables on the school who had previously beaten us. We took second place,—winning over every school in the city except our nemesis, English. The feature race of the "Reggies" was the senior six-hundred in which Gore, our capable captain, beat Marvin, his great rival, who only recently joined the "foreign legion" on Montgomery Street. "Bucky" was one-fifth of a second behind the record. David won the two-twenty in handy fashion. "Sid" Resnick scored 8 points for the team by winning the junior high jump and placing second in the 50 yard dash. "Bob" Fisher and Adams won fourth place in the senior and intermediate broad-jump respectively. Houdan won second in the intermediate shot-put, and Andleman completed our part of the scoring by placing second in the intermediate six-hundred—after training only one week, having been sick most of the winter. In the Relay Carnival, our fast-stepping medley performed in its expected style and succeeded in lowering the record set by English High by two-fifths of a second, the new mark being one minute-forty-eight and two-fifths seconds. The quartet was composed of Resnick, Gore, David and Sheehan. The intermediate relay team won third place, and the senior two-lap team took fourth among all the schools.

The major sport letters for track were awarded to: Andleman, Coleman, David, Ferguson, Fisher, Garber, (manager); Gore, (Capt.); Houdan, Kirwin, Laus, Don-Santo, Levin, Lawlor, McAvoy, McGrath, Olans, Hoffman, Resnick, Roys, and Sheehan.

14 of these 20 letters were awarded to members of classes II - III - IV. If these fellows keep up the good work and do not become indifferent, as seniors are apt to become, we will be able to boast of a team second to none—not even English—in a very few years.

Hockey - - 1930-31

Benjamin Kadish, Sports Editor

For the second successive year the Latin School Hockey team demonstrated its superiority over the English High School aggregation by handing that sextet a 2—1 reverse. This game brought to a conclusion a very successful season in the City League, in which we were undefeated, but three tie games were sufficient to keep us in second place. This year saw a change in the coaching assignment when Mr. Cleary relinquished his duties to his successor, Mr. O'Donnell.

In the City League the team captained by "Jim" Carr won four games and tied three. South Boston was defeated 4—0. B. C. High came next and escaped with a 1—1 tie score. Commerce was conquered 4—0. Dorchester and Trade both managed to hold us scoreless.

The team however didn't fare so well in the outside games. The Alumni, Noble and Greenough, and the Rivers School were the only schools to defeat us. The only redeeming feature of the outside schedule was our victory over St. Marks, whom we defeated 2—1.

Leo Glynn was elected captain for 1932 and Louis Delahoyde was appointed manager.

To the following were awarded the school insignia for hockey: Captain Carr, Captain-elect Glynn, Bilodeau, Byrne, Daley, Denny, Ferreira, Fox, T. Glynn, Kadish, Mahoney, F. Moore, G. Moore, Sheehan, Wright, and Manager Leavitt.

SWIMMING

James H. Dixon, Captain

When in the latter part of January, Coach J. O'Donnell called for candidates for the swimming team over one hundred boys responded. However, this number had diminished exceedingly at the start of the season. The outlook for the season seemed bright with many veterans returning, led by Captain Dixon and Grossman, manager and member of the team.

Despite the loss of many of the veterans and likely prospects because of ineligibility, hampered throughout the season by illness, and facing the most difficult schedule in years, the team had a fairly successful season, winning four and losing three meets. Malden, Nautical Training School, Trade and Mechanics were the victims, while Charlestown, Commerce, and English were the victors, the latter two by small scores.

Among the consistent point scorers in the senior division were Dowd, Lawler, McGreenery, and Dixon. The intermediates bearing the brunt of the work were Grossman, Bigwood, Levenson, Porter, Levy, and Dronsick. The Junior stars, led by our undefeated, record-holding freestyler Gordon, included Belekewicz, McGonagle, Jacobson, Ryan, Guvalnick, and Gooltz, the latter two, both sure winners in their respective events, were sorely missed in the English meet.

The outlook for 1932 appears roseate, since all the lettermen, except Dixon and Lawler, are returning.

The Tennis Team

The Tennis Team began this year its first season under the regime of its new coach, Mr. O'Donnell. Candidates for the team were called out at an early date and although handicapped by courts unfavorable for practice and insufficient time for practice, have completed a successful season, having won five of the eight matches in which they engaged.

The letter men who returned for competition this year are: Captain, "Milt" Schiller, "Vin" Banks, manager of the team; "Sid" Smith, and Sonny Rodman, who was Massachusetts State Boys' Champion in 1930.

The results of the eight matches are tabulated below:—

1931

Class Oration

Gabriel G. Ryan

Mr. Powers; Members of the Faculty; Friends and Fellow Classmates:

The Class of 1931 today bids formal farewell to the Public Latin School—the scene of its endeavors and triumphs, its pleasures and tribulations—of the past few years. As we near the end of our careers here, it is fitting that a day be set aside on which we may recall what has already taken place during these important years and consider the course we are to pursue in the near future.

With this purpose in mind, we have assembled here in public observance of Class Day, the climax of our course in the Latin School. A critical time, to be sure, marking the successful achievement of the culminating point of years of fruitful labor. With mingled emotions, we pause to look back upon our accomplishments here. During our brief years at the Latin School, we have all accomplished much. Not all of us, indeed, have taken part in the many and varied extra-curricular activities which are here afforded us. Not all of us have been favored with particular honors and distinctions. But these, valuable though they are to the student who takes advantage of the opportunities they afford, must be considered, for the most part, material benefits—not to be compared in intrinsic worth with the priceless training, the knowledge, and the associations we have gained here. We all take these away with us, and it is by these that we are all united in a common bond of friendship.

At last we are in sight of our goal. We near the time when we shall leave this building—as yet too young to be graced with the epithet “classic halls”, but a building nevertheless, symbolical of the great institution in whose history it will eventually hold an important place—we shall leave it to join that great body of respected and admired men, the Latin School Alumni.

As we separate and prepare to enter upon college courses, we take with us something of the spirit of friendship and fellowship; of liberality and a mutual understanding of each other, which seem such an inherent part of the Latin School—which may indeed be expressed in that oft repeated term, the Latin School Spirit.

Upon leaving the school, it is well that we reflect on the education we have received here; the practical result of so many hours of faithful study. Today is a day of radically changing ideas in the field of education. The Latin School has kept pace with these changes insofar as they have been conducive to a more complete attainment of our high ideals—insofar as they have been proved to be true reforms, calculated to increase the value of a liberal education. We have, however, continued to cling steadfastly to the sound theory that education may best develop the moral and mental powers by a rigorous training in the classics and sciences. The Latin School student should seek knowledge not for any pecuniary benefit to be derived therefrom, but to acquire an honest appreciation of learning for its own sake. When he has gained this appreciation of the beautiful in the Arts and the practical in the Sciences, the willing student has achieved the highest degree of culture possible of attainment by him at his age. Not only his mind, but what is more important, his character, has received the benefit of a sound and thorough training, a training which has produced and will continue to produce great citizens, keen minds, and noble souls—a training not radically differing from that which has in the past prepared such men as Adams,

Hale, Emerson, Brooks, Everett, or Eliot for their life work. For most of us, our college courses will be but a continuation of education along these same lines. We shall be taught to think, to form opinions—our tastes and aptitudes will be developed—our knowledge will become not only deep, but broad and liberal—we shall be prepared to live, not for ourselves alone, but for the moral and intellectual advancement of society itself.

To make our attainment of this end complete—to become the respected citizens of tomorrow—we have an important duty apart from those of the classroom. We must cultivate an ardent interest in matters of community, national, or international importance. We must endeavor to understand and prepare for the complicated political and social problems with which the world is faced. The present unemployment situation is but an indication of further and more difficult situations with which we shall be obliged to cope. This great financial depression, from whose effects the country is but now recovering, has caused widespread suffering and unhappiness. Whenever a government such as ours enters a crisis, its enemies—external and internal—are quick to capitalize the opportunity for criticism and arousing discontent. They appeal directly to the prejudices and weaknesses of those afflicted by the crisis. The grave danger of such a situation arises from the diffidence of citizens. People who should have the interests of the community at heart, either through indifference or lack of information, fail to heed these evidences of danger in the social and political relations of mankind. One of the most important results of a true liberal education must, then, be the development of a keen interest in the affairs of the state. It is the part of education to stimulate such an interest—it is our duty to maintain it. We must acquaint ourselves with all important political and social problems. We must recognize their value or dangerous influence, and we must resist all subversive forces which tend to undermine our sacred and lofty ideals! If we are to take up the torch which a passing generation of Latin School boys hands down to us—if we are to carry out the trust that is ours—we must shake off the apathy which seems to threaten the youth of today. We must ever be awake to our duties as citizens of a great nation and sons of a great school. God grant that we may never be obliged to give supreme sacrifice as so many of our predecessors here have cheerfully done. But our duty as citizens in a peaceful state is as important as a military duty. In a way, we are all soldiers—fighting for lofty ideals and sacred motives in the great battle of Life. Even as soldiers, we are inspired with a sense of the righteousness of our cause. We must never let interest in the contest lag. Whatever our state of life, let us persevere in striving manfully to achieve and aid others in achieving those moral and intellectual ideals which appear bright in the eyes of youth, but which the passing years may tend to dim.

As we turn from the old school to enter upon the field of higher education, we wish to express our heartfelt gratitude to Mr. Powers and the faculty, who have labored hard to enable us to reach our present high position. We know, as well as they know, that we cannot begin to appreciate their efforts in our behalf until a time when these years will be shrouded in the dim remembrances of age. Then only shall we realize the true significance of Class Day—then only shall we be able to reflect that we have won in the battle of Life, and that we have ever striven to uphold the name and the glory of the old school. To insure the happiness that comes at the evening of a life well spent; to be able to meet death with the feeling that we have succeeded in carrying out our trusts—is our task. To do so is the achievement of an ideal. . . .

The Class Will

Arthur Irving Zich—'31

Hear Ye! Hear Ye! Hear Ye!

By these bequests, we the Class of 1931, on this seventeenth day of April, nineteen hundred thirty-one, in the two hundred and ninety-sixth year post contitionem Scholae Latinae Bostoniensis, being in sana mente et sano corpore do hereby declare this our last will and testament, and do hereby proclaim all previous ones null and void.

Leaving a great struggle behind us, and about to face an indubitably less difficult phase of life, we do make and ordain the following bequests:

I. to the Second Class we leave our dignity as First Classmen. Let them not cast dishonor on the name. Having planted a plum tree in the blossoming garden behind our Alma Mater, we leave all the fruit thereof to our successors, and make the honorable Masters of the School distributors of the produce of said plum tree. We also leave to them our Class Yell: "How many d'ja flunk?"

II. to the Third Class we leave the choice of getting out now or after Dr. Kollidgebored has operated on them. Beware that fatal day in June. . . . ! They may also receive chevrons for drill by inquiring at Room 205 any afternoon after 7:00 P. M.

III. to the Fourth Class we leave seven more years of misery, torture, and degradation. Let them be careful that they do not break Clause 3, Section 7, of Rule 24, which may be found on the fourteenth page of the revised edition of the fifteenth reprint of the rules of B. L. S. This is a censurable offense.

IV. to the Fifth Class, we leave them—in pity. If the dear little rascals struggle long enough, they may get up far enough to watch the fair damsels to the East gambol on the greensward.

V. to the Sixth Class, the little-bittle cuties; we believe that they will perhaps see some day the rise of G. H. S. But until that time we warn them to keep out of the sun and we leave them to their hoop-rolling, marble-playing, joining of the Boy Scouts and other puerile pursuits.

VI. to the Masters of the school, we do hereby make provision for another gross of bottles of red ink to replace the like quantity which we have this year forced them to use for the sake of our artistic temperaments. The Class passes on to the Faculty the little volume entitled "How to count from Fifty to One Hundred in Blue Ink".

VII. The following minor bequests are made:

"Muzzey" Manoukian leaves his best wishes to the Queen of England.

Cronin leaves his poetic license.

S. Quint leaves, they couldn't see him go.

Herbie Rubin leaves the Rostrum and some eardrums not yet shattered.

Tritter leaves a book on Bolshevism, Socialism and Anarchy.

Wilson, Steinhurst, and Stan Schwartz leave room for nine new fellows.

Dixon leaves a swimming team—under water.

Singer bequeaths a pair of wings to Room 209.

J. A. Ryan salutes, about faces, and leaves by way of the front door. Such a soldier!

Shea and Carr leave a trail of limbs along the Arena floor.

Arkie and Stutman will a little red book full of Roxbury, Dorchester, Malden and Chelsea addresses—but be careful, lads!

Denny leaves the remains of a hockey net at the Arena.

Beal leaves a few medals—he couldn't carry 'em all.

Holzman leaves—but even that shall pass away.

Rubin, Radlo, Bricker and Sid Simons leave all their extra hair to stuff some pillows for the seats in the assembly hall.

The Sweeney combine leaves a good pair of oars to endow a crew for the school.

Ober leaves a few cuts for the "Register" if Learner can find room in the sanctum sanctorum.

Jerry West leaves to visit his friends at D. H. S.

Warren leaves a book concerning the habits of red and green fairies.

Less Radlo leaves the secret of his school-girl complexion—Palm Olive soap twice a day, three times on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

Professor Ryan leaves a rattle to be used only in the physics period.

Moynahan and Martin leave their Elizabeth bogged in the mire of Ye Students' Parkinge Space.

Dick Maguire leaves his line—not to be used for fishing.

Weinberg and Trilling endow a fund from their pile of yellow slips.

Sid Stern leaves a trail of notes from his midget harmonica.

At last Gene Silberman gets rid of his two-headed quarter. He's earned his college tuition with it.

MacDonald leaves—nothing . . . . .but then what can you expect?

Bobby Coleman leaves all the dirt collected by his plus twenty-fours.

Sonny Rodman and Milt Schiller leave several blackened and somewhat soggy tennis spheres to be used only in the up-to-date tennis courts behind B. L. S.

Barsie and Molly relinquish all their claims to any remaining apple cores.

Dobson and Stellar leave to join the light-house service.

Reardon leaves some very, very sarcastic remarks to be especially applied to Physics papers. Poor unenlightened little youth!

Prenn leaves the front blackboard in Room 306 to anyone who, like him, claims to be an artist.

Price leaves, but he'll be back in September.

Sam Bornstein leaves to study in the afternoon. He believes in the old saying that in the night one does not work—but goes out!

Doody Berkman leaves a heterogenous mass of bumps, bruises, and abrasions.

Steamship Lurie leaves his war cry, "Come across"!

Litchtenstein, Gabie Ryan, and Webber bequeath their report-cards fantastically marked with eighties and nineties to any fellow in the second class who would rather buy a copy of the Atlantic Monthly than five ice cream cones.

Joe Knowles leaves a desire for ash trays and old rocking chairs for use in the study halls.

Finally, the Class of 1931 as a whole leaves the school confident that they form the best Class ever to depart from the portals of this sacred place of learning.

This will, having been duly christened with a quart of pre-war grape juice, with due process of law we now do seal, set, affirm, witness, and finally throw in the wastebasket this our will. Cursed be he that break any condition of this so-called legal document. Given on Friday this Seventeenth day of April, 1931, in the Boston Latin School, Suffolk County, Massachusetts.

Witnessed:

Harold "Jake" Simons

Robert "Dimples" Whitmore

Signed and sealed:

G. Howie Runs, Esq.

Class Song

by Grover Cronin, Jr.

Hail, all hail dear Alma Mater
As the day to leave draws nigh,
Let us join in paying tribute
For our joys in days gone by.
Happy were the years we spent here
Years that swiftly fled away
Links of friendship firmly forged here
Strong and lasting ties are they.

Mem'ries gay and glad we treasure
Mem'ries of the joyful past
And the trials we've encountered
We've surmounted now at last.
Now a greater fight's before us
Struggle grim with stormy life
'31 will fight the battle
Sure of victory in the strife.

CLASS SONG

Words by.
GROVER J. CRONIN, JR.
Allegro moderato.

Music by WILLIAM ZELEMAYER.

Hail all hail dear A-al ma Ma-ter As the day to pa-art drom ni-gh

Let us join in pa-ay-ing tri-bute For our joys in days gone by.

Nap-py were rap years we spent here Years that swift-ly fle-ed a-way.

Links of friend-ship fi-irm-ly forged here Strong and last-ing ties are they.

The Class Prophecy of 1931

by Phoenix N. Dangel

"Whoa, there Jasper!" came a voice from alongside.

Coleman applied the brakes to the huge sixteen cylindereed battle-wagon, and we stopped within four hundred yards. A grizzled, bespectacled officer came up and howled, "Ticket for you birds. You were doing sixty miles an hour."

I recognized the generous donor as Bornstein, and determined not to let him get us. I pulled an old nail from the floor, put it in my mouth, and stepped from the car, alternately chewing and spitting rust.

"Listen, Archimedes," I bellowed, "We were merely going eighty-eight feet a second, and you know it! Moreover, we were accelerating at only one foot per second, when you sneaked up from the rear. What are you trying to do, frame us?"

"Oh, I beg your pardon, sir, but I could have sworn you were going more than fifteen miles and hour."

Bornstein mounted his motorcycle and disappeared in the distance. Thus had degenerated the man who once embraced half the physics department with one arm.

Coleman turned to me and exclaimed bitterly, "What are you trying to do, get me a life sentence? He's the fourth one you've done that to. You asked me to take you out among the daffodils so you could write poetry. Very well. Here you are, and here you'll stay!"

With those words he started off, leaving me in the dust of the road. My pocket road-map informed me that the next town bore the extremely uninspiring name of "Moronville". Upon further investigation, I discovered that it is famous for its annual walnut crop, one of the finest in the country. Moreover, only one train stopped there each week.

I walked for hours, it seemed, until I reached the place. It was a rather large town, greatly resembling all the other hamlets that grow up along the path of the iron horse. The tiny depot, which carried the huge sign, "When Better Nuts Are Grown, We'll Grow 'em", was deserted. I started up the drowsy Main Street to see if I could unearth one of the inhabitants.

On the fourth corner I found a massive, flat-footed policeman who reckoned he had a faint recollection of seeing me before. It was none other than "Swede" Wilson, who volunteered to conduct me to the presence of His Honor, the Mayor.

Arky Weiner, by the political gymnastics of Sam Abramson (honest, he insisted) had been elected mayor. As I entered, he was bouncing an infant on both knees, and taking wooden nickels from "Lemon Odor" Warren in a shell game.

"Welcome to our Utopia!" he exclaimed. "Here we have a city of 1931, B. L. S., men exclusively. The city that Plato and Lichtenstein themselves could not build, is here before you. Welcome! Welcome!"

"Oh," I suggested, "this is where the boys migrated. That explains the mysterious disappearance of the entire freshman class from Simmons in 1935, n'est-ce pas?"

"Exactly so," replied Arky, sending away the bewildered Warren and placing his little playmate, Sid Quint, on the floor.

"Then you can give me tidings of my long-lost comrades," I concluded.

Arky clapped his hands twice. A door opened and in bounced Pezrow, the ever-faithful.

"Shadow," came the stern command, "Get the records!"

Away dashed Pezrow, while the Mayor explained the advantages of having a valet who never leaves his master for more than 32.5 seconds at a time. Presently the desired papers were brought and the secrets disclosed:

"Dopekeen has published a book in which he gives conclusive proof that Jupiter smoked Chesterfields, read Vergil, and wore trousers bought in Raymonds. Investigation was originally precipitated by an uprising in Room 301.

"Learner, who recently had his greatest literary contribution, a joke, accepted by the "Ladies Farm Journal", is owner of a journalist school and is misleading his neophytes into believing that essays about nothing cannot be written by imbeciles.

"Leventhal has devised a Vergil translation that can neither be mistaken for a text edition, nor read upside down in class.

"Al Aranson, the great musician, better known as "Aroni", has grown a mop of hair and takes the part of Paderewski in silent moving picture.

"Maguire, the blushing baseball-basher, has piloted the Yankees to a comfortable cellar position, even with the Red Sox in the same league.

"Lewis and Long Swartz have edited a revised American History; the copyright is in the sole possession of the Whiz Bang Publishing Company.

"Doc Myerson has perfected a marvelous device which will keep Arthur Gold's left shoulder as high as his right when he is wearing all his medals, coils of braid, and other decorations.

"West has been apprehended for trying to sell rubber cake and slushy ice cream at one dollar per cut.

"Joseph, Herb Rubin, and John Hessian are producing a play in which Joseph is Icabod Crane, Herby recites the whole fourth act of Hamlet with his mouth closed, and John is the headless Hession. Accompanying them is Guilford, the Castoria salesman, whose version of "Is this a dagger that I see before me" is likewise famous.

"Joe Good, who once asked, "Shakespeare, Schickspear, who wrote him?"—can be found in the inner sanctum of Curran's mortuary pitching horse-shoes with Stellar, the red-haired cupid, who is renowned for the promiscuous way he slings his extensive vocabulary.

"Sweeney, who once had nerve enough to denounce the study of physics from the stage of our assembly hall, is touring the country with Howard trying to get new members into the old Barn-Burners Party by reviving the custom of speaking with unique pronunciations and gasping in a monotone for hours on one breath. Incidentally, Casey is trying to get converts into the old Know-Nothing Party, of which he is leader.

"Ferreira, who perfected a system for reading declamations, has aspired to the presidency—of the Amalgamated Gabfest Promotion League.

"Beal accidentally struck his glass chin against that row of medals and discovered that each has a different musical note. All he needs now is a B Flat to complete his xylophone.

"Fisher is in solitary confinement for wrecking a sewing club to which his wife brought him as a visitor. He can be heard anytime, quoting Coleridge: "Women, women, everywhere, and not a drop to drink!"

"Peggram, on account of his good understanding, size fourteen, to be exact, is stamping out forest fires.

"Runt Singer owns and runs a Day Nursery, where women can park their perambulators all day and be assured of safety at the nominal rate of thirty-five cents per babe—two for fifty, Double Legal Stamps, Tuesdays.

Vergil and Dante may have some idea of Hades, but Raushal's newly printed version has both beaten. It is called "The Man Who Came Back, and Why I Hurried."

"Doodie Berkman, who finally laid low Primo Carnera, was recently arrested for assault on Sid Simons. It is alleged that Simons approached him on the street, tapped him on the back, and whispered, "Have you ever been in love?"

"Schiller is running for alderman with his old war cry: "One at a time".

"Stutman and Burke have contributed a fabrication to True Story Magazine, entitled, "What Do They See in Us?"

"The most prosperous business house in Moronville is the frugal brokerage firm of McCarran, McCarthy, McDonald, McDonough, McGonagle, McLaughlin, & McNulty, Unincorporated, Unlimited, and Unadulterated.

"Fog-bound Ober has produced a volume entitled "Miller Answer Book, As it should be, According to Me." Any problem can be done merely by multiplying the coefficient of friction and the cologarithm of the sine of the inscribed angle of a tetrahedron by the electrochemical equivalent diminished by twice the orthogonal projection of the bisector of the angle opposite the hypotenuse of the circle, passing a plane perpendicular the polar triangle formed by the intersection of the three diagonals of a square, stirring well with yokes of two eggs, and adding the desired answer to zero. It works every time.

"Keeler has been chased out of town by his wife and hasn't stopped running yet. It seems he trumped her ace and king in succession.

"Leavitt and Learson, who are in a tie for the stretching record in the lunch-room, have given testimonials to the following effect: "We eat Fleishmann's Yeast after every meal, and look how we've risen in the World." Beckwith, the leaning tower of Pisa, attributes his success to the use of Pyrex (Unbreakable) Bottles, Ivory Soap, and Mellin's Baby Food.

"Epstein and Greenburg have derived a formula whereby they can prove to Mr. Einstein that he never lived. If there were no time there would be no space; if there were no space, there would be no time; since chaos and cosmos are infinite, there is neither time nor space; consequently life is impossible. Q. E. D.

"Ryan has been sent off to the U. S. Senate, where he can rave in peace and do no damage.

"S. S. Lurie, snooping snipper, has given up the back-woods for the sea, and has identified himself with the famous Dollar Line, although installments have been accepted.

"Cronin has been bribed by the town to stop delivering his Lincoln Essay at every public occasion.

"Blitz, the contortionist, is designing strait-jackets for undernourished Liliputians.

"Lee Wasserman wrote a book on how to live on a small income, but it was a failure until he renamed it, "The Meditations of a Sonambulist".

"Banks and Banquer were making stacks of money,—until the government found their printing press.

"Zich, who drew up the will, has tried to repeal the law of the survival of the fittest by constitutional amendment.

"Scannell mysteriously disappeared while doing archeological research.

"Richard and Resnick, the laughing twins, have made a fortune in vaudeville with their old gag: "Votter ya trrrryna do here, start a rrevolohtion?" "No, I'm trrrryna heng mineself."

"Sochat is headmaster of the town high school, which he is making a success for the first time in its history. He has adopted the Latin School Code of Ethics with improvements, notably, Amendment 1635, Part I, Section A, Article 127, Paragraph 2: Thou shalt not sprinkle chalk dust on thy home-room master's hot dish, nor shalt thou hide his bible between the blackboards. All Teacher's mark books are chained to the desks.

"Stern's Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra is now on a slightly successful tour through Europe. Remember how we started a ballroom in the basement during lunch periods with the Locker Room Harmonica Band?

"Rodman and Galvin are National Doubles One-armed Ping Pong Champs.

"Sharkey and Maloney have stopped scrapping and opened up a hot dog stand, on scraps of hash left over from the lunchroom.

"The Five Goldbergs have given up their alchemy laboratory in disgust, asking, "What's in a name?"

"H. J. Kelley has at last devised a waste basket so small that he cannot be deposited in it.

"Milt Radlo, Bricker, and their disciples have saved the government a tremendous sum of money by getting their haircuts before reporting for duty at Atlanta.

"Garber and Fox have superceded Mr. Whitehouse on the radio with saxophone instead of bridge lessons.

"Snake Aronson, the mangler, and Killer Herson, recently became involved in a violent tussle, after which neither could be found. It is rumored that they disposed of each other like the famous Killkenny Cats. Other stories have it that little Bluestein came around and wiped them up with a blotter.

"The Great Triumverate, Carr, Denny, and Daley, have traded their skates for swords and are playing the Three Musketeers in a Yiddish Opera House under the leadership of Dow, the dashing D'Artagnon.

"DeHaan, connoisseur of rare wines, is under contract to Canter, designer of the most attractive brewery since the time of Noah.

"Arthur Holzman has extracted the pure gold from his graduation ring and made from it another ring on which is inscribed the motto: "Even this shall pass away." The microscopic pellet is strung on a thin silk thread and hung around the neck during earthquakes, tornados, and other communist uprisings.

"Leader wears his dark glasses and cane whenever he visits the upper tiers of the Orpheum on Monday morning. They know the other disguises already.

At that point, Arky's tiny charge began to howl so loudly and melodiously that the Mayor was obliged to stuff a handkerchief into his mouth. The stifled wails were too much for my nerves, so I asked His Honor to transport me back to the city in anyway he could devise. He called up Farmer Famiglietti, 210 pound India Rubber Man, who took me to the flying field.

I had my doubts about whether his cloud skimmer would rise from the ground. Anyway, we were about to try when the Farmer let it slip from his tongue that he had made his first solo flight the previous day. Having still some reason left, I tried to climb out, but when I saw Charlie Ross swoop down from the rear selling peanuts, pop-corn, and chewing gum, and clamoring for the quarter I owe him, I told Fat to get me off the ground at any risk. As soon as I recognized the spires of my own home town, I kissed the plane good-by and hopped out with a parachute.

Class Affairs

CLASS ELECTIONS for this year resulted as follows: President, Arnold Weiner; Vice-President, James A. Carr; Secretary-Treasurer, Sherman S. Lurie. The Class Committee elected was: Robert J. Coleman, (Chairman); William J. Casey, William J. Martin and Arthur J. Gold.

PICTURES of the individual members of the class were made by the Vogue Studios. The necessary arrangements were entrusted to the committee composed of Kenneth J. Pezrow, (Chairman); Paul L. Wilson, and William A. Steinhurst.

RINGS and PINS, bearing the same design as those of last year, were chosen by the following committee: James A. Carr, (Chairman); Charles H. Ross, Eugene J. Silberman and Milton S. Schiller.

CLASS DAY, held as usual in the Assembly Hall, was a decided success. The number of visitors was so great that Class I alone made up the rest of the audience. All credit is due to the committee whose members were: Allen S. Lewis, (Chairman); James A. Carr, Sherman S. Lurie, Gabriel G. Ryan, J. Gordon Scannell, Irving Bricker, and Charles L. Bluestein.

The BANQUET at the University Club was arranged by a committee composed of Joseph A. Galvin, Morris Leader, William J. Casey, Robert J. Coleman and Sidney J. Simons.

The YEAR BOOK COMMITTEE, through whose efforts this issue is made possible, was composed of Nathan Learner, (Chairman); Grover J. Cronin, Jr., Benjamin Kadish, Phoenix Dangel, Samuel Bornstein, Nathan Moger, John McDonald, Arthur Holzman.

The DANCE COMMITTEE was composed of Arthur J. Gold, (Chairman); Stanley B. Swartz, Richard Maguire, Gerard J. West, and Paul L. Wilson.

Prize Drill

by John E. McDonald

On Friday, May 8, the three regiments of Latin School assembled in preparation for the annual prize competition. The drill grounds, at the Fens Stadium, was overhung with a slight mist which gradually wore off as the day advanced. Six field-judges were busily engaged for nearly four hours in selecting the winners. By virtue of winning prizes, the following officers were promoted; Captains Maguire, Rubin, and Schachter were elevated to the rank of Colonel; Captains Ryan, Casey and Gambacorta to that of Lieutenant-Colonel. The commanding officers of the remaining prize winning companies became majors of the 1st, 2nd and 3rd battalions of their respective regiments. Capt. "Dick" Maguire indubitably presented the stellar performance of the day, though Capts. Rubin and Schachter did admirably with their smaller companies.

The school wishes to extend its hearty appreciation to the field judges; Major F. M. Maddox, Capts. Henry D. Brown, John L. Keefe, and Samuel P. Murray, and Lieuts. Timothy Regan, Jr. and Francis C. Cadigan. An interesting feature of the occasion was that one of the judges, Capt. John L. Keefe, commanded the Latin School Regiment on a similar occasion some years ago.

Mr. Powers and Col. Penney are to be commended on the fine showing of the three regiments. Col. Penney has brought a gargantuan task to a grand climax in Prize Drill; let us hope that final success shall crown his efforts in the Schoolboy Parade.

The summary:

FOURTH REGIMENT

THE BENTLEY SCHOOL
ACCOUNTING AND FINANCE

A professional school of distinctive quality for men only.

Highly specialized course: two years, days; four years, evenings.

Graduation from high school required for entrance.

The astonishing growth of the School from twenty-nine students to over twenty-six hundred in thirteen years is due to the excellence and unity of the instruction, to the superior ability of its graduates, and to the high repute in which it is held by business and financial concerns and by the public accounting profession.
